APPENDIX F: STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES AND RIGHTS

Responsibilities: The student is responsible for 1) observing all university and Graduate Studies policies, regulations, procedures and academic requirements, including specific requirements of the program; and 2) maintaining a high standard of academic integrity.

Rights: Students are entitled to privacy, expression, nondiscrimination, nonharassment and the opportunity to appeal, petition or contest university actions pursuant to the procedures referenced below.

Pursuant to the procedures set forth below, students shall have the opportunity: 1) to appeal their dismissal from Towson University; 2) to appeal grades; 3) to petition for an exception from academic policies; and 4) to contest disciplinary sanctions.

I. Graduate Student Appeals Process for Academic Issues

Students are to abide by the academic decision process. Under circumstances specified below, students may appeal these academic decisions. Appeals must be submitted in writing and include all documented evidence. Determinations regarding the student’s appeal are to be provided in writing to the student. Rationales for appeals may include:

- evidence of new information or insufficient consideration of all aspects of the situation
- evidence of bias in the decision making
- violation of policy in the decision-making process
- a flaw in the student’s right of due process

Academic Warning – The Registrar’s Office sends a notice of academic warning to graduate students whose GPA falls below the minimum required 3.00. Students may contact the Registrar’s Office for direction on how to correct the academic record, if possible. The warning itself will not be removed if the GPA is not restored to a 3.00.

Late Registration – Students are expected to register for courses in accordance with the date established in the academic calendar. The student is to contact the Registrar’s Office for approval of late registration. The Registrar makes the final determination regarding the late registration request based on the evidence and in consultation with the student’s academic department and program director.

Late Withdrawal During the Academic Term – A student may petition for late withdrawal from courses because of documented health problems or verified circumstances beyond the student’s control. Students are to contact the Registrar’s Office for approval of late withdrawal. The Registrar makes the final determination regarding the late withdrawal request based on documented evidence and in consultation with the student’s academic department and program director. If approved, a grade of “W” will be recorded.

Retroactive Withdrawal After the Academic Term – Students may petition for retroactive withdrawal after the academic term because of documented health problems or verified circumstances beyond their control. Students are to contact the Registrar’s Office for approval of the retroactive withdrawal by the end of the following term. The Registrar makes a determination regarding the retroactive withdrawal request based upon the documented evidence and in consultation with the student’s course instructor, academic department and program director. If approved, a grade of “W” will be recorded. When the student has a dispute with the determination made by the Registrar, they may appeal to the Graduate Studies Committee. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final.

Academic Dismissal for GPA Below the Minimum Requirement – A student may petition for removal of the academic dismissal because of a low GPA that resulted from documented health problems or verified circumstances beyond the student’s control. Students are to contact the Registrar’s Office to request removal of the academic dismissal by the end of the following term. The Registrar makes a determination regarding the removal of the academic dismissal based upon the documented evidence and in consultation with the student’s academic department and program director. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the Registrar, they may appeal to the dean of the academic college, then the Graduate Studies Committee. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final.

Program Dismissal for not Meeting Program Requirements – Students are to abide by their academic department and program policies and procedures for meeting program requirements. The program director or academic department notifies the Registrar when students are dismissed from the academic program. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the academic program, they may appeal to the dean of the academic college, then the Graduate Studies Committee. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final. Students who initiate the appeal process are to do so within 30 days of initial notification of dismissal.

Graduation Deficiency – Students are to abide by their academic department and program policies and procedures for completion of requirements necessary for graduation. The program director or academic department notifies the Graduation Office when students have not completed the requirements necessary for graduation. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the academic program, they may appeal to the dean of the academic college, then the Graduate Studies Committee. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final.

Second or Third Attempts of a Course – Students are to abide by their academic program and department policies and procedures for course repetition. In those situations where academic program and department policies regarding course repetition are more stringent than TU policy, students are to abide by their academic program and department policy regarding petitioning for exceptions. Students must contact the Registrar’s Office to petition for exception to TU policy that states that courses for which a grade has been earned may be repeated only once. The Registrar makes the determination regarding the petition for a third attempt of a course based on documented evidence and in consultation with the student’s academic department and program director. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the academic program or the Registrar, the student may appeal to the dean of the academic college, then the Graduate Studies Committee. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final.

Time Limit for Completion of Degree and Certificate Requirements – Students are to abide by TU policy for completion of degree and certificate requirements. Students are to contact the Registrar’s Office and provide documented evidence related to health problems or extenuating circumstances to petition for a time extension. Petitions for time extensions beyond one year require documentation of substantive health problems or extenuating circumstances. The Registrar makes the determination regarding the extension based upon documented evidence and in consultation with the student's academic department and program director. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the Registrar, they may appeal to the dean of the academic college, then the Graduate Studies Committee. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final.

Exception to Conditional Admissions Procedures – The Director of Admissions, in consultation with the academic program director, can approve admission of students into a program who meet the qualiﬁcations for conditional admission of the academic program that are published in the Graduate Catalog. Students who seek admission to an academic program that do not meet the minimal qualiﬁcations for conditional admission must petition the Graduate Studies Committee for admission. A written rationale and documented evidence must be included in the petition. The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is final.

Grade Appeals for a Particular Piece of Work – Students who feel an earned grade for a particular piece of work is unjust must address their disagreement ﬁrst with the course instructor who is primarily responsible for assigning grades. When the student has a dispute with the determination made by the course instructor, the student may appeal ﬁrst to the program director and/or the department chair as outlined in the department’s policies and procedures and then the dean of the academic college. The decision of the academic dean is ﬁnal. Students who wish to initiate the appeal process must do so by the end of the following term.

Grade Appeal for Grades as Outlined on the Course Syllabus – Students who feel an earned grade was inconsistent with the terms set forth by the instructor at the beginning of the term, normally outlined in the course syllabus, must address their disagreement ﬁrst with the course instructor who is primarily responsible for assigning the grades. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the course instructor, they may appeal ﬁrst to the program director and/or the department chair as outlined in the department’s policies and procedures, the dean of the academic college, then the Academic Standards Committee via the Registrar’s Ofﬁce. The decision of the Academic Standards Committee is ﬁnal. Students who wish to initiate the appeal process must do so by the end of the following term.

Dismissal for Violation of Professional Standards – Students are to abide by the professional standards established within their academic programs and departments. The program director and academic department make the determination to dismiss a student for violation of professional standards based on documented evidence and in accordance with established policies and procedures of the program and department. When students have a dispute with the determination made by the program director and academic department, they may appeal to the dean of the academic college, then the Graduate Studies Committee.
The decision of the Graduate Studies Committee is ﬁnal. The student shall be informed of the decision in writing by mail to the student’s permanent address in PeopleSoft. Students who wish to initiate the appeal process must do so by the end of the following term.

II. Student Academic Integrity Policy

I. Policy Statement

The acquisition, sharing, communication and evaluation of knowledge are at the core of a university’s mission. To realize this part of its mission, a university must be a community of trust. Because integrity is essential to the purpose of an academic community, the responsibility for maintaining standards of integrity is shared by all members of that academic community. As instructors, faculty members are ultimately responsible for maintaining the academic standards of integrity on which trust is founded because they set academic standards, award academic credit and confer degrees when standards are met. To carry out these responsibilities, faculty members will reasonably assess that student work submitted for academic credit is authentic as well as consistent with established academic standards. Therefore, academic evaluation includes a judgment that the student’s work is free from academic dishonesty of any type. Through example in their own academic pursuits and through the learning environment that they create for their students, faculty members preserve and transmit the values of the academic Community. They are expected to instill in their students respect for integrity and a desire to behave honestly. They must also take measures to discourage student academic dishonesty. The following policies, procedures and deﬁnitions are intended to help faculty meet these responsibilities. As responsible members of the academic community, students are obligated not to violate the basic standards of integrity. They are also expected to take an active role in encouraging other members to respect those standards. Should a student have reason to believe that a violation of academic integrity has occurred, they are encouraged to make the suspicion known to a member of the faculty or university administration. Students should familiarize themselves with TU’s policies, procedures and definitions of types of violations. Commitment to maintaining and encouraging high standards of academic integrity is demonstrated in many ways. One way is through the establishment of policies and procedures governing violation of the standards. The provisions of Towson University’s Student Academic Integrity Policy follow.

II. Reason for Policy

To maintain and encourage high standards of academic integrity, and to comply with University System of Maryland Policy III-1.00 Policy on Faculty, Student and Institutional Rights and Responsibilities for Academic Integrity.

III. Deﬁnitions

The following deﬁnitions and examples are not meant to be exhaustive.
The university reserves the right to determine, in a given instance, what action constitutes a violation of academic integrity.

1. Team initiations.
   a. Student - includes all persons taking courses at the university, both full-time and part-time, pursuing undergraduate, graduate, professional and certiﬁcate or continuing studies.
   b. Plagiarism - presenting work, products, ideas, words or data of another as one’s own is plagiarism.
      • Indebtedness must be acknowledged whenever:
         1. one borrows facts, statistics or other illustrative materials.
         2. one uses another person’s ideas, opinions, work, data or theories, even if they are completely paraphrased in one’s own words.
3. one quotes another person’s actual words or replicates all or part of another’s product. This includes all information gleaned from any source, including the Internet.

b. Because expectations about academic assignments vary among disciplines and instructors, students should consult with their instructors about any special requirements related to citation.

c. Some examples: Submitting as one’s own the work of a “ghost writer” or commercial writing service; knowingly buying or otherwise acquiring and submitting, as one’s own work, any research paper or other writing assignment; submitting as one’s own work which portions were produced by someone acting as tutor or editor; collaborating with others on papers or projects without authorization of the instructor.

d. In addition to oral or written work, plagiarism may also involve using, without permission and or acknowledgement, Internet websites, computer programs or files, research designs, ideas and images, charts and graphs, photographs, creative works and other types of information that belong to another. Verbatim statements must be enclosed by quotation marks, or set off from regular text as indented extracts, with full citation.

c. Fabrication and Falsification - making unauthorized alterations to information or inventing any information or citation in an academic exercise. Fabrication is a matter of inventing or counterfeiting information or citation, while falsification is a matter of altering information.

Some Examples:
Fabrication - inventing or counterfeiting data, research results, information or procedures; inventing data or fabricating research procedures to make it appear that the results of one process are actually the results of several processes; counterfeiting a record of internship or practicum experiences.

Falsification - altering the record of data or experimental procedures or results; false citation of the source of information (e.g., reproducing a quotation from a book review while indicating that the quotation was obtained from the book itself); altering the record or reporting false information about, practicum or clinical experiences; altering grade reports or other academic records; submitting a false excuse for absence or tardiness in a scheduled academic exercise; altering a returned examination paper and seeking re-grading.

d. Cheating - Using or attempting to use unauthorized materials, information, notes, study aids or other devices in any academic exercise. This includes unauthorized communication of information during an exercise.

Some Examples: Copying from another student’s paper or receiving unauthorized assistance during a quiz, test or examination; using books, notes or other devices (e.g., calculators) when these are not authorized; procuring without authorization tests or examinations before the scheduled exercise (including discussion of the substance of examinations and tests when it is expected these will not be discussed); copying reports, laboratory work, computer programs or files and the like from other students; collaborating on laboratory or computer programs or files and the like from other students; collaborating on laboratory or computer work without authorization and without indication of the nature and extent of the collaboration; sending a substitute to take an examination.

e. Complicity in Academic Dishonesty - helping or attempting to help another commit an act of academic dishonesty.

Some Examples: Allowing another to copy from one’s paper during an examination or test; distributing test questions or substantive information about the material to be tested without authorization before the scheduled exercise; collaborating on academic work knowing that the collaboration will not be reported; taking an examination or test for another student; or signing a false name on an academic exercise. (NOTE: Collaboration and sharing information are characteristics of academic communities. These become violations when they involve dishonesty. Instructors should make expectations about acceptable collaborations clear to students. Students should seek clarification when in doubt).

f. Abuse of Academic Materials - destroying, stealing or making inaccessible library or other resource materials.

Some Examples: Stealing or destroying library or reference materials needed for common academic exercises; hiding resource materials so others may not use them; destroying computer programs or files needed in academic work; stealing or intentionally destroying another student’s notes or laboratory experiments; receiving assistance in locating or using sources of information in an assignment where such assistance has been forbidden by the instructor. (NOTE: The offense of abuse of academic materials shall be dealt with under this policy only when the abuse violates standards of integrity in academic matters, usually in a course or experience for which academic credit is awarded).

g. Multiple Submissions - submitting substantial portions of the same academic work (including oral reports) for credit more than once without authorization of the instructor(s). What constitutes a “substantial portion” of the same work is determined solely by the university.

Some Examples: Submitting the same or substantially the same work for credit in more than one course without prior permission of the instructor. Building upon or reworking prior work is acceptable with permission of the instructor.

h. Course Related – an alleged violation that occurs in a course being taken for academic credit.

i. Non-Course Related – an alleged violation that relates to any aspect of a student’s program of studies that is not part of a course being taken for academic credit.

IV. Responsible Executive and Office

Responsibility Executive: Provost

Responsable Office: Registrar’s Office

V. Entities Affected by this Policy

This policy applies to all enrolled students, undergraduate and graduate, regardless of teaching site (e.g., off-campus) or teaching mode (e.g., distance learning).

VI. Procedures

1. A. Procedures for handling cases.

This Policy will cover two types of academic integrity violations: course-related and non-course-related.

a. Course-related violations.

i. A faculty member responsible for assigning final grades in a course may acquire evidence, either directly or through information supplied by others, that a student violation of academic integrity may have occurred. After collecting the evidence available, the faculty member meets with the student to present the evidence of a violation and request an explanation. If the faculty member accepts the student's explanation, no further action is taken. If the faculty member determines that a violation has occurred, the faculty member informs the student, in writing, of the academic penalty and of the student's rights of appeal. The faculty member sends a copy of the letter, together with any additional information, to the department chairperson and to the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education. The letter should include:
1. nature of the charge/evidence against the student
2. brief summary of the meeting with the student
3. faculty member's decision
4. right of appeal to the department chair
ii. If the student is subsequently found not responsible for the charge, the student may either:
   1. remain in the course without penalty, or
   2. withdraw from the course regardless of any published deadlines
   • Once a faculty member has charged a student with academic dishonesty, the student may not withdraw from the course.
   Any student who withdraws from a course before the charge is made may be re-registered for the course so that appropriate action can be taken. If the student is found responsible for violating the Student Academic Integrity Policy, the student may not withdraw from the course and will receive the sanction imposed by the instructor or other academic authority.

b. Non-course-related violations.
   i. A department chair or other academic authority may acquire evidence, either directly or through information supplied by others, that a violation of academic integrity may have occurred in a departmental or comprehensive exam or other departmental activity. After collecting the evidence available, the chair or academic authority, meets with the student to present the evidence of a violation and request an explanation. If the chair or other academic authority accepts the student's explanation, no further action is taken. If the chair or other academic authority determines that a violation has occurred, the chair or other academic authority, informs the student in writing of the academic penalty and of the student's rights of appeal. The chair or other academic authority sends a copy of the letter together with any additional information, to the college dean and to the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education. The letter should include:
   1. nature of the charge/evidence against the student
   2. brief summary of the meeting with the student
   3. chair or designee's decision
   4. right of appeal to the college dean
ii. If the student is subsequently found not responsible for the charge, the student may either:
   1. remain in the course without penalty, or
   2. withdraw from the course regardless of any published deadlines
   • Once a faculty member has charged a student with academic dishonesty, the student may not withdraw from the course.

2. Procedures for group projects.

   When academic dishonesty occurs in a group project, faculty should make a concerted effort to determine who was responsible for the violation of the academic integrity by examining each student's part of the project and by meeting with each student individually, then collectively. If the preponderance of evidence identifies the violator(s), that student (or students), not the group, may be charged with a violation of the academic integrity policy and the student(s) be informed of the penalty to be assessed. In cases where the identity of the violator(s) is not easily determined with reasonable certainty or when the violator(s) are not forthcoming, the faculty member may then hold the entire group responsible for a violation of the academic integrity policy and assess a penalty to each member of the project team.

3. Penalties.

   All acts of academic dishonesty violate standards essential to the existence of an academic community. Most offenses are properly handled and remedied by the faculty member teaching the course in which they occur or by an academic department or college. Other violations will be referred to the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education for sanctions listed in the Code of Student Conduct. The penalties that may be assessed by a faculty member for a course-related violation may include the following:
   a. revision of the work in question and/or completion of alternative work, with or without a grade reduction
   b. reduced grade (including "F" or zero) for the assignment
   c. reduced grade (including "F") for the entire course
   • The penalties that may be assessed by a department, college or other academic authority for a non-course-related violation may include the following:
   i. failure of a comprehensive exam
   ii. dismissal from an academic program
   iii. dismissal from a Graduate program
   iv. referral to the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education • NOTE: If a department or college has its own code of professional standards, any academic integrity violation, whether course-related or non-course-related, may be sanctioned under the process described in those professional standards, in addition to those penalties outlined above. Whatever the penalty, the letter describing the incident and recording the decision will be kept for seven years in the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education. The purpose of this record keeping is to ensure that students who violate the university's Student Academic Integrity Policy a second time are dealt with appropriately. A second purpose is to deter students from repeating offenses. The first-offense file is an internal record, not part of the student's disciplinary record or academic transcript. A second violation will normally result in formal judicial charges being brought against the student. In addition to the sanctions listed above, sanctions for a second or subsequent violation may include:
   i. suspension from the university for a designated period of time
   ii. expulsion from the university
   iii. any sanctions listed in the Code of Student Conduct or Graduate Catalog
   • In the determination of penalties, the following factors may be considered:
   i. the nature and seriousness of the offense
   ii. the injury or damage resulting from the misconduct
   iii. the student's prior disciplinary record
   iv. frequency of academic integrity violations

   a. If the student chooses to appeal a course-related sanction, upon receipt of the faculty member's decision, the student must submit within five working days a letter of appeal to the department chairperson. If a department chairperson is also the instructor bringing the charge of academic dishonesty, any appeal will be sent to the dean of the college. After receiving the student’s appeal letter, the chairperson will:

i. arrange a meeting with the student within five working days, unless there is a compelling reason to extend this time period. If the time is extended, the meeting will be held as soon as possible after the five days.

ii. arrange, if appropriate, a meeting with the faculty member, either separately or with the student in attendance.

iii. notify the student in writing of his/her decision within five working days following their meeting, unless there is a compelling reason to extend this time period. If the time is extended, the student will be notified as soon as possible after the five days.

iv. send copies of the decision to the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education and to the office of the dean of the college.

b. If the student is dissatisfied with the chairperson’s decision, in the case of either a course-related violation or a non-course-related violation, the student may appeal to the dean of the college. The student must submit a letter to the dean within five working days following the receipt of the chair’s letter.

c. Finally, if the student is dissatisfied with the decision of the college dean, he or she may appeal to the Student Appeals Committee. The student must submit a letter of appeal to the Committee, in care of the Office of Student Conduct and Civility Education, within five working days of the dean’s decision, unless there is a compelling reason to extend this time period. If the time is extended, the letter of appeal will be due as soon as possible after the five days. Once the Committee has received the appeal, it will set up a meeting where both student and faculty or departmental representative will be invited to give testimony to the Committee. The Committee may let the original decision stand or may modify it. The decision of the Committee is final.

III. Non-Discrimination Policy

Towson University’s policies, programs and activities comply with federal and state laws and University System of Maryland regulations prohibiting discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, age, national origin, sex, gender identity and expression, disability and sexual orientation. Sexual harassment (see following section) is considered a form of sexual discrimination.

Students may bring concerns about discrimination or unfair practices in education to the Fair Practices officer for investigation (Administration Building 211, 410-704-2361). After a student has filed a formal complaint, full information from the complainant, from university records and from university personnel involved in the incident will be gathered and a determination as to the merits of the complaint will be made.

The investigation will normally be completed within 30 days. If a key person is unavailable or if the complaint is complex or involves a grade dispute or other academic matter, the investigation may take longer. Every effort will be made to complete the investigation within the term in which it is filed, unless the complaint is filed within the last two weeks of a term, in which case every effort will be made to complete the investigation by the beginning of the following term.

Students are encouraged to bring incidents that they think are discriminatory to the attention of university officials. The university cannot take appropriate action unless it is aware that a problem exists.

For more information, visit our webpage (https://www.towson.edu/inclusionequity/nondiscrimination.html).

IV. Sexual or Gender Harassment

Sexual harassment constitutes a serious threat to the free interaction and exchange necessary for educational and personal development and it is entirely unacceptable on this campus. Sexual or gender harassment may range from offensive gender or sexual innuendos to coerced sexual relations. It can happen to both men and women.

Harassment occurs when a person in a position of control or influence uses authority in an attempt to gain sexual favors and thereafter threatens or punishes for refusal to comply. Harassment includes, but is not limited to, suggestive remarks about clothing or physical attributes; leering; unnecessary touching; subtle or direct requests for sexual favors; implied or overt threats; or a hostile sexual environment. Students may bring concerns about sexual harassment to the Fair Practices officer for investigation (Administration Building 211, 410-704-2361) consistent with applicable university regulations. For more information, visit our webpage (https://www.towson.edu/inclusionequity/nondiscrimination.html).
