Learning Outcomes

The specific learning objectives of the program are to prepare candidates who are able to:

- Evaluate existing curriculum, instructional practice, and classroom environment for cultural relevance and potential barriers for all students.
- Promote active student engagement for all students through the use of appropriate approaches, strategies, techniques, or activities.
- Establish a safe, fair, equitable, and challenging environment for all students.
- Differentiate instruction effectively to facilitate student learning of high, worthwhile, appropriate goals.

- Apply a thorough knowledge of curriculum when sequencing learning experiences, implementing instructional strategies, and selecting (diverse/inclusive) resources.
- Articulate an understanding of research-based models of teaching that support the cognitive, social, and personal development of diverse groups of students.
- Compare and contrast different frameworks for analyzing teacher behavior.
- Analyze and reflect upon classroom instructional approaches.
- Describe the impact of language, culture, development, and socioeconomic status on the assessment process.
- Identify the ways in which formative and summative assessments may be used for diverse learners and describe appropriate practices for valid, culturally responsive assessment.
- Identify a professional learning need and show how that need is met using collaboration with peers and its impact on student learning.
