The applied doctoral degree in Occupational Science prepares graduates to teach, influence policy and engage in applied research. Occupational science is the scientific study of human occupation related to the purposeful and meaningful activities that comprise everyday life experiences. The study of occupation involves the investigation of the relationship among the occupations, health and life participation of individuals of all ages within the context of their families, communities and society. The main emphasis of this interdisciplinary doctoral program is to advance education, research and service that promote occupational engagement, participation and well-being of persons, organizations and populations by applying knowledge gained through the study of occupational science. Within the curriculum students address the science of human occupation and occupation in practice.

The doctoral degree requires the completion of at least 90 units beyond a bachelor’s degree.

General Requirements

1. The doctoral degree will require the completion of 90 units beyond a bachelor’s degree; students who hold a master’s degree in a discipline other than occupational therapy will be allowed to transfer a maximum of 30 units from their master’s degree; students who hold a master’s degree in occupational therapy may transfer a maximum of 36 units from their master’s degree. Students who hold a clinical doctoral degree in occupational therapy may transfer a maximum of 45 units from a combination of their master’s degree and their clinical doctorate.

2. A program of study focusing on a particular aspect of occupation will be developed by the student in consultation with his or her adviser. This program of study is to include all planned electives. A minimum of two electives must be at the 700 level. One elective must be an additional education course, and one must be an additional quantitative statistics, mixed methods or qualitative course.

3. Evidence of prior research experience is required. Applicants who do not have appropriate experience may be expected to take master’s-level research course work before beginning the doctoral program research sequence.

4. Students must register for at least one academic term of full-time dissertation research (3 units).

5. The program, including course work and dissertation, must be completed within 10 years.

6. The doctoral degree will require the passing of a comprehensive assessment after completing OCTH 611, OCTH 613 and OSC 742, OSC 744 and OSC 746. Students must pass the comprehensive assessment prior to enrolling in OSC 895. After successful completion, students will be "advanced to candidacy."

7. The doctoral degree will require successful defense of a dissertation proposal.

8. The doctoral degree will require successful defense of a dissertation (minimum of 12 units), involving applied research in occupational science.
