

ACADEMIC POLICIES AND PROCEDURES

An education from Towson University includes a broad liberal arts base and a strong knowledge of one or more major fields of study. To ensure that the Towson degree continues to have weight and meaning, and that it signifies student work meeting or exceeding a particular level of excellence, the university insists that certain standards and policies apply to all undergraduate students. These policies are published every year in this catalog, and any revisions are effective as of the date of the catalog's publication (unless otherwise stated).

The Registrar's Office (<http://www.towson.edu/registrar>) is responsible for overseeing the following policies, procedures and programs. The office serves undergraduate and graduate students, faculty members, administrators, alumni and the general public in the areas of registration, grades, records and transcripts, reenrollment, inter-institutional registration and national exchange programs, veteran's benefits, and graduation.
