The National Testing Office offers selected national standardized exams to Towson University students in conjunction with campus departments. The National Testing Office also offers accommodated exams to students with disabilities and non-Saturday exams for those who are unable to test on Saturday due to religious reasons. Students wishing to schedule an exam, request an accommodation, or change/reschedule exam dates or accommodations should contact the respective testing company directly. The National Testing Office does not handle any registration requests, process payment for exams, or process accommodation requests.
